"I attended three international courses with the professionals from different parts of the world: Africa (Nigeria), Asia (India) and south-eastern Europe (Serbia). That was a perfect opportunity to get closer with completely different approaches and systems of adult education and to try to make a comparison on similarities and differences between them. The lectures were more than interesting, very creative, dynamic, interactive. [...] Beside the learning part of my exchange, I had a lot of free time activities. Würzburg is a wonderful city, which offers a lot of new experiences in any sense."

Aleksandra Milicevic, Exchange Student at University of Würzburg from University of Belgrade, Serbia, in winter semester 2016/17.

Description

UNESCO has just published the report of the International Commission on the Futures of Education under the title Reimagining our futures together. A new social contract for education. Within the perspective of lifelong learning, it looks at the challenges of the future – social and climate justice, peace and sustainable development, migration and integration – and how the different sub-sectors of the education system need to change in the light of digitalization and globalization.

The UNESCO Institute of Lifelong Learning (UIL) has published Making Lifelong Learning a Reality: A Handbook. The links to the open access publications will be made available on the seminar website, in addition to other important documents, many of which derive from global conferences like the UN Sustainable Development Goals or the UNESCO World Conferences on Adult Education, called CONFINTEA.

Participants will learn more about international policies and strategies in education, how they are developed and related to national and local implementation. The potential roles of governments, civil society and universities are taken into focus. A special attention is placed on adult and continuing education – the majority of people are adults and for the longest time in life. This calls for improvements in the professionalization and institutionalization of adult education which has been argued for by civil society. Examples of advocacy and experiences from different countries, especially in Europe are analyzed.

Learning outcomes

Participants gained a deeper understanding of ALE's significance within lifelong learning, They know international ALE policies and practices, can evaluate the roles of various stakeholders in promoting ALE and identify effective strategies for enhancing ALE globally through advocacy efforts and experiences from different countries.

Description

We have had a close friendship with Masaryk University in Brno (Czech Republic) for many years. After no joint events were possible for a long time due to the corona pandemic, we want to start an excursion to Brno in the Czech Republic again from December 14 to December 17, 2022. During these four days, we will visit special education institutions around Brno together with local students and take part in joint courses to gain practical insights into special education in the Czech Republic.

Please note that the excursion is at your own expense with individual and self-organized arrival and departure. Thankfully, we will be able to take advantage of the discounts offered by our partner university for accommodation; the Chair of Special Needs Education will also provide a subsidy of around EUR 50 to 100 for the overnight stay.

Description

The Dialogic Model of Living Together is currently scientifically validated by the literature and implemented not only in adult education but also in other fields of education and in other areas of society different to education. The origins of this elaboration had been done in adult education. The Dialogic Perspective or Dialogic Education since the 60s with Paulo Freire and with many other contributions in the 60s, 70s, 80s,... allowed adult education to develop this Model of Living Together based on the dialogue among everyone without any restriction. This Dialogic Model overcomes the insistence on replacing the participation of all, by that of the experts or mediators as the ones who intermediate in the conflicts. This Dialogic Model gives back to every participant the main role in the building of a very good living together in a adult education classroom, in a barrio, in a village, in any kind of social site.

Learning outcomes

Upon completion of the course students will be able to:

- To dialogue about the bibliography of the course
- To critically analyse the diverse perspectives of historical and current feminism
- To critically analyse the diverse perspectives of historical and current LGBTBI+ movement
- To promote the feminism of all women among their adult students
- To foster preventive socialization of gender violence
- To create the conditions to eradicate the Isolating gender violence

Julius-Maximilian-University Würzburg

The Julius Maximilian University of Würzburg (JMU), founded in 1402, is one of the universities in the German-speaking world that have a long and rich tradition. Numerous famous scholars and scientists have made their mark here, such as Carl Siebold, Rudolf Virchow, and Franz Brentano. So far, 14 Nobel laureates have conducted their research here, including Wilhelm Conrad Röntgen, who discovered X-rays at Würzburg. In 1985, the physicist Klaus von Klitzing received this distinction for his discovery of the quantum Hall effect. Harald zur Hausen was given the Nobel Prize in Medicine in 2008 for discovering that viruses trigger cervical cancer. In addition, ten scientists from the University of Würzburg have received a Leibniz Prize – the most prestigious German research prize.

The Julius Maximilian University is constantly expanding: Since the 1960s, it has been spreading out onto a hill on the eastern edge of the city, called Hubland. A green campus has sprung up there, bringing together large sections of Science and Humanities. This is also home to the University Library, the Mensa dining hall, the Hubland Campus and the University Sports Facilities. In 2011, this area was expanded by a further 39 hectares, offering a huge amount of space for new institute premises and seminar rooms.

More than 28,000 students, including some 2,100 young people from abroad, are registered with ten faculties. These can be divided into four main areas: Humanities, Law and Economics, Life Sciences, and Natural Sciences and Technology. The university and its hospital provide employment for 10,000 people. Around 4,000 are on the academic staff, more than 400 as professors.

Study in Würzburg

The University of Würzburg offers more than 200 study programmes. In addition to this, there are parallel courses and postgraduate courses in Experimental Medicine, European Law, and other study fields. The university also offers some further education courses, such as Psychological Psychotherapy, Purchasing and Supply Management. The Center for Continuing Education coordinates the part-time educational courses for professionals, which are expanded continuously. As an important element in the promotion of young talent, the Julius Maximilian University offers doctoral degrees in all study areas, even in interdisciplinary fields, with intensive tutoring and supplementary multidisciplinary courses. The University of Würzburg Graduate Schools for doctoral students from all disciplines were set up for this purpose.

Research

The university boasts numerous collaborative research centers, graduate schools, and research groups, which are funded by the German Research Foundation (DFG). These top-level research facilities have been secured for Würzburg despite tough competition from other higher education institutions. The Julius Maximilian University is among the most successful German institutions of higher education. This can be attributed to its high-caliber scholars and scientists as well as its interdisciplinary research centers, which have been set up in the fields of Medicine, Science, and Humanities. The university was a pioneer in creating these centers, starting the process as early as the 1990s.

Cosmopolitan

The Julius Maximilian University maintains numerous partnerships with universities in Africa, America, Asia, Australia, and Europe, and strengthens these relationships continuously. In addition, there are considerable relations at the level of institutes and departments.

Internationalization is a top priority for the University of Würzburg. <https://www.uni-wuerzburg.de/en/university/international-partners/>

The city of Würzburg

A lot of student activities take place alongside the River Main with its promenades, meadows, and beer gardens: discovering the music and culture of our neighboring continent on the Main meadows during Europe's biggest Africa festival, walking barefoot in the sand at the city beach, or enjoying concerts and theater performances on a floating stage during the Würzburg Docks Festival – all this and more is on offer in Würzburg. Another popular event is the Mozart Festival, where “Serenade No. 13” is performed in a relaxed atmosphere in the Court Garden of the Residence. The distances within Würzburg city center can be covered easily on foot. Sporty people can reach all destinations by bicycle.

There is no lack of sports options in the city; there are cycling, running and Inline skating routes, leading along the River Main or through the vineyards. The university offers a broad spectrum of sports activities, ranging from basketball to yoga.

The university also culturally benefits the city and the wider region: concerts by the Institute of Music Research or exhibitions in the university's museums enrich the cultural scene. For the general public, the university organizes lectures, readings, and other public events.

In addition, there are laboratories for school pupils, a children's university, a school pupils' university, and study programs for senior citizens. All these events combine with other cultural offerings and leisure facilities in Würzburg – theaters, concerts, open-air festivals, and wine festivals – to create an attractive environment in which to live and work.
